SECTION II – Deal Summary: Smithfield Foods is looking to purchase the minimum licenses and support necessary to conduct a Conference Room Pilot (CRP) for the Order To Cash workflow. They will use the CRP to assess Oracle's capabilities as Oracle does not have referenceable OTC customers in the food processing industry vertical.

Once the CRP is complete (slated for mid July), this deal will provide the customer with the option to purchase the full roll out's worth of licenses (Deployment) at a worst case 60% discount (net $ 1.9L). The CRP licenses will likely be Term licenses to keep short term costs (risk) to a minimum, and will be discounted at the same worst case discount through August '03. We will lead with 50%. In the event that Smithfield chooses to purchase Perpetual licenses for the CRP, we are seekint the same 60% worst case discount. The price hold is requested through August to allow for slippage. OCS is actively bidding for the CRP and roll out work, and has a fixed price proposal submitted for $3M +.

SECTION III - Justification:

Smithfield Foods is an existing Oracle APPS Customer (Financials and HR) who is currently implementing with OCS. Oracle does not have applicable references for Order to Cash in the food /process manufacturing vertical. Smithfield would be an excellent reference candidate as they own 24% of this $ 36B market (pork production).

Smithfield is extremely risk averse and is willing to proceed with an Oracle OTC solution (in spite of our lack of references) if Oracle agrees 1) to lock in pricing now for the full Order to Cash solution, good through Q1, and 2) support a CRP with Term licenses discounted at the same discount as the full roll out licenses.

Smithfield will pay for consulting services to implement the CRP, and is likely to work with OCS, but is also evaluating IBM/Pwc and CSC. OCS has currently submitted a $ 3M fixed bid proposal to Smithfield for the CRP and OTC go-live.

This deal is competitive with SAP, who has significant presence in this industry space, including installations at Conagra and Tyson.
